Some people may think that rosé is the wine of summer. As far as I am concerned, I can drink it all year long. There are many fantastic rosé which I keep on discovering.

As is the case with 2017 Olema Rosé.

A blend of 60% Grenache, 30% Mouvedre and 10% Carignan.

Made in the Côtes de Provence in the village of Vidauban, this wine is dry and vibrant with flavors of red berry, honeydew melon with a hint of strawberry and cherry.

It is refreshing with a light to medium body. I highly recommend it. Check it out.

Olema also has a variety of wines including Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon made in Sonoma Country.
